Ian Hume, a former chief engineer for English Heritage, explores some of the less expensive, low-tech methods that can be used in the structural investigation and assessment of masonry structures. His article also looks briefly at the questions raised by investigative work and, when defects have been identified, how to source the appropriate specialist expertise to address them.

Masonry Structures: Structural Investigation and Assessment

10.1.1 Assessment At an early stage in the emergency response, and in planning for possible emergency settlements, an assessment should be made of vector-borne disease risks and pest
